V. Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims 1-7	YES
	Claims	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims 1-7	YES
	Claims	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims 1-7	YES
	Claims	NO

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)NOVELTY (N) AND INVENTIVE STEP (IS) claims 1-7

The invention of the claims is a method of soil-gas analysis prospecting characterised by the step of performing a multivariate discriminant analysis by providing for each soil sample a plurality of gas ratios by dividing a product of two or more signature gas values by a product of two or more other signature gas values for each of the signature gases; and summing the gas ratios for each sample in the subset to provide a composite summed ratio parameter.

All of the documents cited in the International Search Report were category A only. No individual citation or obvious combination of citations disclose or fairly suggest such a method. Therefore, the invention as defined in the present claims is considered to be novel and inventive.

VIII. Certain observations on the international application

The following observations on the clarity of the claims, description, and drawings or on the question whether the claims are fully supported by the description, are made:

Claim 1 does not appear to be fully supported by the description. The present claim defines a multivariate discriminant analysis step of dividing a product of two or more signature gas values by a product of two or more signature gas value for each of the signature gases (page 7 lines 11-13). This appears to include the situation of dividing a product of two or more signature gas values by a product of the same two or more signature gas values. However, from reading the description (see page 3 line 23) and the embodiment (Fig. 6), it appears that the gas ratios are provided by dividing a product of two gas values by a product of two other gas values.
